The Escape of Bazalne.

Panis, Angust 12th.—It has been ascertained that the plan of Bazalne's escape from St. Marguerite was arranged six weeks ago. It was entirely the work of Madame Bazaine. The Marshal refused at first to fly, but finally, owing to his failure to obtain some modification of his sentence, he visided. He sailed from the island in the steam-yacht Baron Riccasoli, helonging to an Italian company. The prisoner refused to employ a French wessel. He was accompanied in his flight by his wife and brother. His place of refuge is not known. Some persons say he is in Spain. The domestics at the fort where the Marshal was imprisoned have been arrested.

Parliament was prorogued on the 8th of August.

The following is the Queen's message: Lowovs, August 7th.—In the Queen's proclamation to Parliament she thanks both houses heartily, and states that the relations with all foreign powers are friendly. She explains that England is represented in the Brussels Conference, but has stipulated that there shall be no change in the recognized rules of international law, and that no restriction shall be placed upon the conduct of maral operations, and re-serves the right to accept or reject the recommenda-tions of the conference. The message further states that measures have been undertaken for a renewal of the reciprocating treaty formerly existing between Canada and the United States. These negotiations, commenced by the desire and in the interests of Canada, have been temporarily suspended by the adjournment of the American Senate. "They will be revived soon," she says, "and I hope will lead to the increase of commercial relations between the two countries. I deeply lament the condition of Spain, and while carnestly desiring the restoration of peace and order in the country, I consider non-interference and order in the country, I consider non-interactives the most conductive to unity. A treaty has been concluded with the Sultan of Zannihar, providing for the gradual arresting of the slave traffic. I am thankful that famine in India has not been accompanied with much mortality, which is due to the precautions and measures taken by my Government. The Gold Coast is being gradually pacified and resettled, and the King of Ashantee is discharging his obligations." The message proceeds to congratulate Parliament upon its work, and expresses pleasure because of the reduction in taxation; at the passage of the act by which the health of women and children will be promann the areas of women and children will be promoted; at the emethent of the hill reforming the patronage in Scotland, which will conduce to the religious weifare of the people, because it removes the causes of controversy; and at the passage of the public worship hill, which will settle the form of worship of the established church.
